THE GREAT DECLARATION!

In seventeen hundred and eighty-six Independence Day was declared in the eighteenth century and every day of the Friday Sale was fixed.

The "fixers" of the former event were victorious. We, the "fixers" of the latter event, are also victorious, thus far. We have made our "Declaration of Independence" against prices, and every Friday sees a "battle royal." Prices are all cut to pieces; goods in every department are saved, and the heaps of the slain may be seen on all sides. We intend to "fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." For this Friday we have made a grand onslaught. The panoramic view of the battle of Gettysburg, and of other battles, may be very fine; but we invite those on "our side" to view this battle-field! The morning is the best time for this view, but it can be seen all day. There are spoils here—the richest of spoils.

A Jesuit Missionary to the Indians.

"Kizique" is in town. To be a little more explicit, the Jesuit father, Rev. Urbaldi Grassi, the missionary, is spending a few days with Bishop Chatard. Father Grassi has spent twenty-six years as a missionary among the Indians and is known to the tribes as "Kizique." In the Okinagan tongue "Kizique" means "left-handed," and Father Grassi is left-handed. He is known by this Indian word. Father Grassi is a native of Piedmont, Italy. He went to California in 1860 and has since that time lived and worked with the Indians. He has views on the Indian question and thus pays his respects to the Indian agents.

"If the Indians were treated with fairness and justice, they would be little trouble with them and they would yield to christianity and become civilized. The Indian agent is usually a dishonest person, or at least inefficient and unsatisfactory. Occasionally there is a good one, but for the most part they are bad. They are Indian agents not for the benefit they may do the Indians, but for the money there is in the office. The Indians can be civilized, and civilization will settle the Indian question. Of course, christianity, preceding civilization will make the Indian easier. You can depend upon the Indians when they have good treatment.

They are only ugly when pushed and coerced by wrong. The Indian is a very method for making good Indians is very different from ours."

Father Grassi says he has found the Indians ready to accept religious instruction.

They think better of the Chinese than of the Americans, because the Mongolians treat them fairly and honestly. The Jesuits have missions in Idaho, Washington, Montana and Wyoming territories and in Alaska.

THE TRANCE REVIVALIST.

Mrs. Woodworth's Remarkable Meetings in Madison County—Her Route.

(Special to The Indianapolis News.)

ANDERSON, Ind., July 7.—On the beautiful banks of White river, near the Madison and Hamilton county line, is situated the little village of Perkinsville. Just a few rods west of this place is the Zeller grove. Here it is that Mrs. Maria B. Woodworth, the far-famed trance evangelist, with her flock, has been holding a revival that, in interest and attraction, has never been equaled in this county. Night and day great masses from home and abroad congregate to listen to this wonderful woman. On the Fourth it is estimated that there were persons assembled within the sound of her voice.

These remarkable meetings are due to the influence that Mrs. W. wields over her audience—known as the trance state, which has so far puzzled the best psychologists. Diversity of opinion exists as to the cause of this state, or rather the effect it produces on the victim under its influence. Some attribute it to the influence of a narcotic drug; others believe it to be magnetism, while still others claim it to be the direct influence of the Holy Ghost. The experience and appearance of the patient while under a trance may be briefly described as follows: Suddenly the individual falls over and assumes a deathly appearance. The limbs become rigid, the cheeks pallid, the eyes are rolled back in their sockets, the head is thrown backward and the arms are perpendicularly extended and the individual seems to be imploring heavenly aid. After an indefinite period of time, ranging from one to seven hours, the subject suddenly revives and assumes the normal state.

Mrs. Woodworth is a lady apparently thirty-five years of age, of fine form and attractive face, a good talker, cool and deliberate at all times, and is believed by her followers to be an earnest and true christian.

Her husband, who is a sort of attaché for the purpose of "mobility" in her travels, has his refreshment stands and picture gallery, of which he has exclusive control, has a decided aversion to the newspaper fraternity.

The meetings at Perkinsville close Sunday night, and she will immediately repair to Summitville and stretch her mammoth tent. From there she will probably come to Anderson about August 1.

Business Failures.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 7.—Owing to an unsuccessful attempt at combination, the Pennsylvania tack works here have been closed, and all the property of the company and of C. P. Weaver, treasurer, seized to satisfy claims of about $40,000.

New York, July 7.—Stephen Moore-house &amp; Co., wholesale grocers, made an assignment to-day with preferences of $37,- 455. The direct cause of the failure was the recent death of H. H. Katterhorn, who was indorser on the firm's paper for about $60,- 000, and as his name could not be secured for extension of about $30,000 of it, which fell due on Saturday, the assignment became necessary. The paper is nearly all held by local banks. No estimates of the assets and liabilities is obtainable.

A Pivotal Candidate.

CHATTANOOGA, July 7.—Thomas C.

Blakeney, a coal miner at Soddy, has received notice that he has passed a successful examination before the civil service commission, and has been appointed to a twelve-hundred-dollar clerkship in the treasury department. Last April, during the great flood, he learned that the commission was at Knoxville. He crossed the raging river on a raft of logs, and trudged twenty miles to reach a train. He passed a perfect examination over fifty applicants as a result of his pluck.

MRS. CLEVELAND'S PORTRAIT.

size portrait of Mrs. Cleveland, taken by their call. There are also many other fine portraits of well known citizens of this city and state to be seen there.

As Mrs. Partridge would say, "Some people pay their debts more promptly than others, and some don't." The same is true of insurance companies. Here is a case in point: "An Indianapolis man had a policy for $2,000 in the Travelers' Insurance company and also one in the Stand-Em--oil company of —. He was accidentally killed while getting off a moving passenger train.

The Travelers promptly paid the loss to the beneficiary of the insured, who bought a farm with the money and sold it again, making $800 by the transaction, before the slow-going and dilatory company aforesaid paid.
